

WILSON APPEALS TO ROAD OFFICIALS

Asks Them to Abandon Their Insistence on Arbitration

ISSUES STATEMENT

President Asserts Public Has a Right to Expect Acceptance of His Plan

SUMMONS MORE EXECUTIVES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—President Wilson appealed to the railroad officials today to abandon their insistence on arbitration of the dispute threatening a nation-wide strike and to accept his plan of settlement, already agreed to by the employees.

In one of the most dramatic scenes known to the White House, the president declared to the heads of five billion dollars worth of properties, assembled at his summons: "If a strike comes, the public will know where the responsibility rests. It will not be upon me."

A few minutes later he issued a statement saying:

"The public has a right to expect acceptance of his plan."

Do Not Give Final Answer.

Refusing acceptance for the present, but not giving a final answer Hale Holden, president of the Burlington road, and spokesman for the thirty-three railroad officials urged the president to uphold the principle of arbitration and declared his plan would place in peril all that has been accomplished in the peaceful adjustment of labor controversies by methods of arbitration.

At the close of the conference President Wilson summoned to Washington additional railway presidents from the west and the executives already here told him that they would confer among themselves and return next week, probably Monday. In the meantime, representatives of both the roads and the employees will remain here for informal conferences.

The situation tonight was described by a railroad president as not hopelessly grave.

Serious consideration was given to the possibility of government operation of the roads in case of a strike. As a result of the day's conferences however, it was said on good authority that many of the road presidents looked upon the possibility of a strike as more remote than at any time since they came to Washington. Over the week-end it was anticipated that the railroad officials will get into communication with the controlling financial interests and it still was considered possible that some of the powerful directors of the roads would be called to Washington.

Believes Concession Right

President Wilson urged the adoption of the 8 hour day because "he believed the concession right," suggested the creation by congress of a small body of men to investigate the results and urged the abandonment of the demand of time and a half for over time pay by the men and the "contingent" proposals by the railroads.

Mr. Holden insisted upon arbitration in his reply because "it is essentially the common right of every citizen of whatever condition in life to be heard," and because experience "has put the right to claim arbitration as a method of settling such controversies beyond question."

The demand for the eight hour day is in reality, he declared, only an indirect plea for enormous increase in wages and said that "in this instance for those demanding a change to refuse to submit their demands to arbitration is indefensible."

INLAND LAKE REGATTA.

Oshkosh, Wis., Aug. 19.—Today more yachts are gathered in Oshkosh harbor than ever before on Lake Winnebago. The big racing fleet is here to participate in the annual regatta of the Inland Lake Yachting Association, which was preceded today by the annual meeting of the Oshkosh Yacht Club. The regatta proper will begin Monday and continue over Tuesday.

SCHOOL OF MUSKETRY TO OPEN

Lawton, Okla., Aug. 26.—A special term of the school of musketry of the United States army, for instruction in the use of machine guns, will be opened tomorrow at Fort Sill. Officers from many divisions of the army and those in command of machine gun companies of the national guard are expected to attend.

FUNSTON SUGGESTS MEN BE WITHDRAWN

Recommends American Forces Be Brought Out of Mexico

MAY HAMPER ENVOYS

State Department Officials Regret Premature Publication of Funston's Conclusions

LANE WILL LEAD COMMISSION

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—A recommendation from General Funston that the American troops be withdrawn from Mexico was contained in a recent report on the military situation made at the request of the war department and designed for use of the joint committee which will discuss border problems.

State department officials regret the premature publication of General Funston's conclusions, but they indicated today that it would not cause any alteration in plans.

Publication of the fact that General Funston believes it wise to withdraw the troops may hamper the American commissioners, some of them think, in obtaining whatever guarantees they may ask of the Mexican government as to security of the border from bandit raids.

There can be little doubt, it is said that the withdrawal will be promptly agreed to when the commission meets the conferees then turning their attention to the drafting of a protocol to cover future border operation, investigation of the causes of bandit raids and such other matters as they may wish to take up. No intimation came from the White House today as to when an announcement of the American membership of the commission might be expected.

In view of Secretary Lansing's recent assurances to Eliseo Arredondo, Mexican ambassador designate that the commission could be assembled very soon, it was believed tonight that the names of the commissioners would be made public early next week.

Secretary Lane who will lead the delegation already has accepted the post.

Pershing Takes No Steps

El Paso, Texas, Aug. 19.—Mexican reports in Juarez today indicate that no steps have been taken by General J. J. Pershing's expedition looking toward a general withdrawal from Mexico. The American expedition lies stretched out in a compact line from Columbus, N. M., to El Valle to Chihuahua, a distance of about 20 miles, the field headquarters being maintained at Columbus, 120 miles south of Ciudad Juarez.

Reports that General Funston had recommended the withdrawal were received with the greatest enthusiasm in Juarez. General Gavira, inspector general of the Carranza armies, and General Francisco Gonzales, commandant, said that the reports to this effect "will tend to eliminate the greatest cloud."

CONTEST OWNERSHIP OF SONGS

New York, August 19.—A suit contesting the ownership of copyrights on "Silver Threads Among The Gold" and other old songs written by Hart P. Danks who died in Pennsylvania in 1903, was begun in the federal court today by his widow and children against Elizabeth Adair Gordon and others, song publishers under the name of the estate of Hart P. Danks.

The defendants are accused of publishing Danks' songs wrongfully and without authority and thereby to have made $100,000 in profits. The plaintiff's demand is an accounting.

ONE KILLED IN WRECK

Chicago, August 19.—One woman was killed and about forty persons injured late tonight when a North Shore and Milwaukee Electric car standing at the Glencoe Station was crashed into by a second car. Both trains were special with passengers from the Ravinia Park concert and the famous Ruthenian and German choral societies will sing.

THREE STRIKE BREAKERS SHOT

Toledo, O., Aug. 19.—Three strike breakers were shot and seriously wounded late tonight in a riot on the city's principal street. Some pedestrians were injured in the throng which filled the streets.

Striking taxicab drivers are said to have started the riot. A dozen men were arrested.

FLYLESS CITY.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 19.—If it is possible to be a flyless city, LaSalle, Ill., intends to fill the bill. The health department there and the woman's club have combined in a real fly fight.

They are paying a small bonus of five cents a hundred for dead flies, giving a prize of a dollar watch for the largest catch each month and will give a prize of $5 for the largest catch of the season.

PIUS X'S DEATH REMEMBERED

Rome, Aug. 19.—The second anniversary of the death of Pope Pius X. will be observed tomorrow with the celebration of masses in the crypt of St. Peter's, where the body of the pontiff is buried near the tomb of St. Peter. The services will be attended by Pope Benedict and all the members of the Sacred College resident at the Vatican.

CHARGE DEAR WITH ROBBERY.

Chicago, Aug. 19.—Earl Dear, under indictment as the "braids" of an auto stealing combine, was arrested tonight as suspect in the robbery of the Pullman offices in the Monon freight house this afternoon.

Lake Geneva, Wis., Aug. 19.—Surgeon N. R. Sullivan, U. S. N. who is in charge of the medical department of the National Service school camp here, today announced that the health of the women recruits is practically perfect.

DUNNE IN HOUSTON AFTER INSPECTION

ASSERTS HE FINDS CONDITION OF TROOPS EXCELLENT

Houston, Texas, Aug. 19.—"I came to Texas to satisfy myself as to the conditions of the soldiers on the border because of some of the newspaper accounts which we received. I found that the most scrupulous care was being taken of them, that their physical condition was excellent and that their surroundings were good. Everything that possibly can be done for their comfort is being done."

This was the statement of Governor E. F. Dunne of Illinois, who arrived in Houston tonight after an inspection of the military conditions along the border.

Governor Dunne and his party were passengers on the first train to leave the storm-stricken area at Brownsville. He arrived on the Gulfport train which left Brownsville Friday and arrived here tonight. In the party with Governor Dunne were Mrs. Dunne, Adjutant General and Mrs. Frank S. Dickson, Col. M. R. Kelly and Col. J. K. Finn, personal aides and Lieut. Col. Jacob Frank, army surgeon.

They will leave Sunday morning over the Gulf Coast Lines to New Orleans and return to Chicago via the Illinois Central.

"It was in response to an invitation from Major General Parker, commanding the Brownsville district, that I came to Texas to inspect the camps," said Governor Dunne. "I found the Illinois troops in excellent condition. I am proud of the way the cavalry is getting along, also the two Brigades of Infantry at an Antonia and the signal corps.

"One man seems to be satisfied with conditions altho many of them feel impatient. They say that if there is not going to be a scrap they want to get back to their business and homes."

HARRY POWERS THE VICTIM OF SATURDAY NIGHT HOLD UP

Found Bound and Gagged on Reed Street, With Sum of Money Belonging to Wilson & Harding Missing.

Harry Powers, a grocery clerk with the firm of Wilson and Harding on West State street, was held up last night and robbed of $16.66 belonging to the firm, as well as personal belongings of unknown value. The police department received a call last night about 10:25 o'clock from some one who gave his name as Riley Smith, who told them that he had found the man on Reed street east of Church street. Officers Moore and Jordan were immediately sent and they found the man bound hand and foot, gagged and in a serious condition. He was unable to talk, and Dr. Franks was called and the man was removed to his home. The young man's residence is on Reed west of Fayette street. It is presumed that he was going to his home and the person or persons who committed the act knew of the amount of money he carried and picked this rather obscure spot for the deed. The police are busy on the case, but at an early hour this morning no arrests had been made.

Mr. Powers declared himself opposed to invisible government.

"I want," he said, "visible government, competent administration not only by those elected by the people but by appointees of elected officials who represent the competence of the nation."

In his address to business men of San Francisco at the Commercial Club, Mr. Powers spoke in part as follows:

"We come to a constructive period, a difficult period, a period in which America must look forward with greater confidence in the soundness of our life than she has hitherto had. I am glad we can be sure that we can control monopolistic practices, and that we can prevent unjust discrimination. We can secure a square deal and yet we can foster enterprise, and make the honorable man of business feel that he has a free avenue to an honest success."

"If we cannot so judge the United States then our future is a troublesome one and we will fail as great nations of the past have failed. We must not be afraid of perfect co-operation. Everywhere along the line from this time on, we have got to consider, not what each one can do in a haphazard way but what is the best way to do things, in order to achieve things in the future."

"I believe that there is a great deal that we have yet to learn in this country in order that we may hold our own with the better organizations abroad."

"We have a world to do in this country. We are disjointed and we are unorganized. I want to see fair co-operation on a proper basis with such supervision as may be necessary to prevent abuses in order that we can go forward and advance our foreign trade throughout the world."

"Now, when the nation has anything to do it ought to be done in a way that would be a pattern for the entire country."

"The fact that we have the state supreme in its sphere and the nation supreme in its sphere, the fact that where the two intertwine the federal power must be regarded as the dominant power, does not mean that we should not have those accommodations which will present certainty and security in all those business activities that come in contact with the government where the interest is local."

HUGHES SPEAKS AT FRISCO AND OAKLAND

Refers to Federal Commissions to Investigate Various Situations

ADDRESS BUSINESS MEN

Asserts Government Cannot Be Properly Conducted By Mixing Politics and Business

AGAINST INVISIBLE GOVT.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 19.—Charles E. Hughes today told audiences here and in Oakland, that the government of the United States could not be properly conducted by mixing politics with business, with preparedness, with the maintenance of international honor or with other administrative functions of government.

At Oakland, Mr. Hughes repeated his declaration that he favored fostering honorable American achievements in business and adjusting difficulties by finding the facts and acting upon them.

"You can break down your prosperity by prostituting yourself in the face of an unjust popular demand," Mr. Hughes said. "I shall never do that. And the unjust popular demand is only unjust because the facts are not understood. The only thing I am afraid of in this country is the dark. When we get things out into the light of day and see the actual facts we generally find out where the truth and justice lies."

"Some people live in dreamland," Mr. Hughes continued in speaking of the need for military and commercial preparations. "They do not understand the actual world we live in."

The nominee spoke of federal commissions to investigate various situations.

"We have developed commissions of investigation," he said. "What do they amount to unless we have expert commissioners?"

"I believe we can put down what is wrong without destroying what is good. We are competent if we go about it in the right way, to destroy abuses to secure open and fair dealing and at the same time make possible honest enterprise."

"We cannot go forward unless we realize ourselves nationally. We must more than ever understand that national powers are to be exercised and that national prosperity can be gained only by the potency of our national organization."

Mr. Hughes declared himself opposed to invisible government.

"I want," he said, "visible government, competent administration not only by those elected by the people but by appointees of elected officials who represent the competence of the nation."

In his address to business men of San Francisco at the Commercial Club, Mr. Powers spoke in part as follows:

"We come to a constructive period, a difficult period, a period in which America must look forward with greater confidence in the soundness of our life than she has hitherto had. Dr. John R. Mott's assurance that the 5,000,000 prisoners of war in the prison camps of Europe are well treated is a welcome word from a competent reporter. He says that all of the countries have welcomed the work of the army Young Men's Christian association, except Turkey which as yet the association has not been permitted to enter. The statement of Dr. Mott will offset the charges and counter charges made about cruelties practiced.

Mexican industry is reviving, according to a Monterey dispatch. "The large steel plant at Monterey is turning out steel rails for the proposed new lines," of railroad. Orders for material for more than 1200 miles of new railroad and for the rehabilitation of the National railways of Mexico have been placed by the government. "Several thousand men are employed on the construction of an extension of the line" between Durango and Zacatecas. "An appropriation of $2,000,000 gold has been set aside by the governor of the state of Jalisco" for the construction of a line from America to the Pacific coast. Several other railroad projects are mentioned as being actively promoted. All this is encouraging.

Opposition to the Carranza government in Mexico is not in evidence these days, and progress toward rehabilitation is steadily being made. Mexico to most of us is a land of mystery and it is difficult to understand how conditions vary so greatly in different parts of the country and change so quickly. The trouble is that "improved" conditions may disappear in a night.

After the War Orders

The European war helps the sale of American machinery in Argentina, according to special Agent J. A. Massel, of the Department of Commerce. Apparently, some of Mr. Massel's comments escaped the eye of the censor in the Department, for they tend to contradict the assertions of some of the Department officials. "The great bulk of machinery and machine tools in the Republic are of German make and now that this trade has been cut off, there will be an increasing demand for machinery. Firms in the United States may get an occasional order during the continuance of the European war, but once the war is ended and business resumes its normal aspect, trade will inevitably turn back to Europe again unless in the meantime intelligent organization be effected and business efforts exerted to secure a satisfactory share of it for the United States."

That is just exactly what business men have been saying for months. The war is all that stops the German inflexible, grand, when he's taken a stand.

There's nothing has power to move; Not boisterous, nor loud, of him we are proud, For every statement he'll prove.

STATE NEWS NOTES

Street preaching—To reach men and women who never go to church will be a feature of the 93rd annual Illinois Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, which will be held in Springfield, Sept. 5 to 12. Some Illinois preacher will deliver a sermon each night on the court house square.

Another interesting feature will be a big temperance rally in the First Methodist church here.

Methodist preachers high in the councils of the church from many parts of the country will attend the conference and many will appear on the program.

A public Health Nursing Association—recently formed in Peoria, Ill., is advocated by the Illinois State Board of Health as a model for other cities.

The Peoria association combines and centralizes all the visiting nursing of the city. Instead of working independently often overlapping the different organizations and associations which are interested in any line of nursing under the new plan will so cooperate that the work will be centralized in one office. All nurses will work under the direction of a superintendent. All records will be filed at the central office in regular form.

The new organization has a board of 45 directors, 24 of whom are representatives of associated organizations.

As an idea of the wide field of interests represented by the units making up the association, the following list of the organizations represented in the association is given: Association of Commerce, Associated Charities, board of health, Anti-Tuberculosis society, Child Welfare league, the Peoria Betterment society, Peoria Medical society, Peoria Dental society, the Metropolitan Insurance company, the Tuberculosis Sanitarium commission, the School board and the Visiting Nurse committee.

A state board of health bulletin says:

"This is the first organization of its kind in Illinois, and there is no doubt that the visiting nursing of Peoria will be more easily and effectively done under the new plan.

The New Sanitary Engineering Bureau—of the Illinois State Board of Health, established by the last legislature, is now fairly started on its duties, altho it is still in temporary quarters in the state arsenal. The bureau moved here recently from the University of Illinois at Urbana, Ill.

The bureau is at present engaged in the following activities: Control over the installation of water supply and sewerage systems; sanitary surveys; supervision of city waste collection and disposal, and street cleaning; examination of swamp and overflow lands within the state with a view of encouraging their reclamation for bath health and profit; investigation of methods of heating and ventilating auditoriums; sanitary inspection of public school buildings; typhoid fever investigations; public addresses on sanitary engineering topics; informal advice by correspondence.

The bureau has adopted rules and regulations requiring the written approval of the state board of health for plans and specifications for proposed water supply and sewerage systems or for modifications and additions thereof. The bureau has considered sixteen water supply and sewerage projects and rendered invaluable assistance in the construction of these projects.

The bureau is planning sanitary surveys in many localities, only a limited appropriation preventing this work all over the state. A survey is practically an inventory of a community's sanitary status. The most comprehensive of these surveys has been made at Petersburg, Ill., where a typhoid fever epidemic stimulated the work. Additional surveys are being planned for Urbana, Mattoon, and Jacksonville.

As a result of a number of surveys made at chautauquas and fair grounds, and other outdoor places where the public congregates in summer, the state board is mapping out such surveys for the entire state. The work will begin within a few weeks, and the board hopes to make known to the public the exact sanitary condition of every chautauqua ground and summer resort before the next vacation season.

RELATIVES OF GUARDSMEN
SEEK THEIR RELEASE

Adjutant General's Office Receiving Great Mass of Letters on This Subject—Stories of Privation Told.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 19.—An entire stenographic force is kept busy in the adjutant general's office answering letters from every section of the state in reference to the release of Illinois National Guardsmen on the border.

A veritable flood of letters comes from the mothers and wives of soldiers who tell pitiful tales of destitution and ask that their "boys" be released. None of the writers display the slightest knowledge of the proper method of obtaining release for the men upon whom they are dependent. Many of the letters, perhaps a majority of them, are addressed to "the governor" and are turned over by the executive department to the adjutant general's office.

An old mother aged 73, invalided and unable to write or read, had some one write that she is left "alone and on the mercy of charity."

"Three of my sons are dead, and (the soldier) is left as my only dependence for comfort and cheer to read, write or wait on me, as he is my all," says the letter.

A wife, whose husband is on the border, writes that she has three children, a baby two weeks old, born since the departure of the husband, and that since the tropes left she has buried a four year old child. She says she is at the mercy of the Red Cross and without a penny.

A mother, whose son evidently left home without her consent, asks the governor to find him, as he is her only support, she says. She does not know what company or regiment he is in, and believes he might have enlisted under an assumed name.

Unwilling to tell the mother that nothing is known of her son, the adjutant general has put clerks to work searching thru the 10,000 names of men on the border in an effort to find the name of this woman's son that she may secure his release.

Another sad plea comes from a wife who writes that she has been bedridden since her husband departed with his company and that she has no soul to aid her.

All of these letters are answered fully and with the greatest dispatch by the adjutant general's office. The humblest plea and the most absurd, all are given attention.

Most of the replies sent by the office consist of directions for obtaining the release of the soldier. These directions in general are as follows:

The dependent person should obtain from two reputable citizens of the home town affidavits that a real dependency exists. These affidavits should be mailed to the commander of the company of which the soldier is a member. The soldier will then make written application for his release. The application with the affidavits attached will be sent to the commander of the Southern Department of the United States Army, in the case of enlisted men, and in the case of commissioned officers to the adjutant general of the regular army at Washington.

Seldom a bona fide request for release fails to receive favorable action, he adjutant general's office states.

MORTUARY

Clark

Mabel Clark, aged 3 years, died Saturday morning at 9 o'clock at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Clark, of Buffe Avenue, South Jacksonville. The child had been suffering from acute cholera infantum.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at the residence at 2:30 o'clock, Rev. G. W. Flage officiating. Following services at the house, the cortege will motor to Diamond Grove, where interment will be made.

Hayden.

Miss Mabel Hayden, of West State street, who has been in Colorado since last September, died at Long Beach, California, Friday night. Deceased had been in poor health for some time and last September accompanied by Miss Mae Strong, went to California. During the fall of last year her health seemed improved, but about the beginning of this year she became worse. July she was taken to a Long Beach hospital and five weeks ago underwent an operation.

Miss Hayden was the elder daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Hayden and her home has always been in this city. After graduating from the High School Miss Hayden took a course at the Jacksonville Conservatory of music and later traveled quite exclusively. She was a member of the First Baptist church and actively interested in the various departments of the church work. Somewhat retiring in disposition she nevertheless attracted the friendship of a large number of persons all of whom readily grew to appreciate the strength and beauty of her character.

The remains will arrive in Jacksonville Wednesday or Thursday and will be taken to the home of Mrs. Clara H. Smith 523 West State street, the old Hayden homestead.

Announcement of the funeral will be made later.

George C. Barbee.

A telegram yesterday announced the passing of George C. Barbee, of Prague, Okla. Mr. Barbee was well known here, and at Concord, his early home.

A fuller notice will appear later.

Argentine Agricultural Progr'ss
(Wallace's Farmer)

It was estimated in 1914 that Argentina had 18,000,000 acres of land in alfalfa. Just what the acreage is in the United States, we do not know, but it can not be much over 10,000,000, since, according to the 1910 census, we had less than 5,000,000 acres. Argentina may not be producing any more corn than Iowa, but she seems to have considerably more alfalfa than the entire United States. And alfalfa, it must be remembered, ranks with corn as an efficient food producer.

The advance of Argentina in the meat packing industry is indicated by the following quotation from a daily consular report:

"The various meat freezing establishments constitute the most important single industry in the country. American capital is largely represented in that industry; the machinery used and the methods employed are American, and many citizens of that country are employed in official capacities in the plants. The Frigorifico-Armour, which began work during the year, has one of the most modern and complete plants in the world, and its completeness adds a great deal to the importance of the industry."

Another quotation from the Daily Consular report:

"There has been a marked increase in the number of swine in the country during the past six or seven years, and a much greater interest among the people in raising these animals. The new freezing establishments of the Armour interests opened during 1915, is devoting special attention to its hog-slaughtering department."

With her extensive alfalfa pastures, her cheap corn, and modern packing establishments, the Argentine farmers should make splendid progress with hogs. At present, the whole country of Argentina has fewer hogs than the state of Iowa, but we expect to see the day in the not-far-distant future, when Argentina will produce several times as many hogs as Iowa. About all that is necessary to bring this about is that the packing plants down there pursue an enlightened policy in their treatment of the Argentine hog men.

The second day of Jacksonville's 1916 chautauqua drew the largest Saturday crowd since the chautauqua was established. It was Farmer's Day and that they appreciated the program arranged especially for their benefit was shown by the numbers who came not only from all parts of Morgan county but from adjacent territory as well.

The addresses were given by Bob Seeds, Howard Leonard, Woodford county farmer, and Prof. G. I. Christie, superintendent of agriculture extension in the rural schools of Indiana. The musical features included two concert programs by the Jeffries Band and two programs by the Short "Kids" of Murrayville. The night program concluded with moving pictures shown by Mr. Scott.

"BOB" SEEDS HERE FOUR TIMES.

Following the concert in the afternoon, Mr. Dial, as platform manager complimented the tenters for the splendid order maintained on the grounds and the care shown in keeping the streets in the tent city clear of all refuse matter. He said the committee had noticed that the streets are in better condition than was true last year, altho there are many more people on the ground. Then Bob Seeds was introduced as a farmer who never fails to please chautauqua audiences. This was the fourth time that Bob Seeds has appeared in Jacksonville and this statement is sufficient proof of his local popularity. It was more than fifteen years, because of ill health, that Bob Seeds was compelled to give up business life. Then he went out into the mountainous district near his home in Pennsylvania and purchased a farm which had been abandoned for seven years. As he expresses it the land is so rough that he was compelled to build fences to keep the cattle from rolling out of the pastures.

Benefits of Mingling.

The major portion of his address, which was heard with evident pleasure by the audience, laid emphasis on the great value of community interest. "If there is growth," he said, "people must mingle with each other and work to common ends. Those people who never compare themselves with other people do not really know their abilities or their limitations. Twenty-five years ago members of the churches hated each other but time is developing great changes along these lines, mainly from the growth of the community idea. Keep up this 'mingling' and in a few years more you will make Christians out of all church members and you will make and keep this whole country dry. Organization is the basis of accomplishing large things in this world and community effort is simply a form of organization. Everybody with a new idea is for a time called a fool and there are those who stand about and say 'it can't be done' or who will say that it's time to watch for failure.

CHAUTAUQUA COMMITTEES.

As the people meet in chautauqua assemblies you find a splendid example of the benefits of mingling together. I should like to build a monument to the volunteer firemen who risked their life with the hope of saving the lives or property of other people. Then I should like to build another monument to the chautauqua committee in each community.

The members of such committees must be the cream of the community for these men or women spend hours and days of time, hold evening is talking agriculture now and if you go to a meeting of bankers you will find they spend half their time in talking about farms and farm interests. If you would take the farmers from the land in every county between here and Boston the property in your towns and cities in that territory would not be worth 25 cents on the dollar. A fair sample of the importance of farming interests appears from the statement that the American hen produces more wealth on the farm each year than the net earnings of all our railroad systems. The American hen can pay the national debt each year just laying around. So the farmer today is coming into his own and the people as a whole appreciate more than ever before that agriculture is the basis of all our wealth and prosperity."

The address was enlivened with the sprightly stories that have made Bob Seeds popular on the lecture platform in a dozen states.

Howard Leonard of Woodford County, discussed the Farm advisor movement before the Chautauqua crowd Saturday afternoon and in a very convincing way summed up the advantages of the movement. Mr. Leonard is a farmer who operates 178 acres of land near Eureka in Woodford county. While that country has had an advisor only a little more than a year the soil improvement association has been in existence for a period of years, and has done successful work. Mr. Leonard in his address based the arguments in favor of an advisor on the experiences of Taswell, McLean, Livingston and other counties where the farm advisor movement has been working for a number of years. He divided his arguments into three classes, first, those showing the financial benefits, second those showing social benefits and third those showing educational benefits.

SMUT TREATMENT FOR OATS

The speaker talked first from a financial standpoint because the average farm and land owner considers that first of all—and a crop improvement project that showed only social and educational benefits would be hard to advocate and meet with enthusiasm. One thing that the committee in Woodford county accomplished and which the figures showed was important was in the treatment of oats seed for smut. It was proved by records from 113 farms that where seed had been treated with the proper formula for smut, that the percentage of loss was less than one per cent, while in fields planted without the smut treatment the damage was from 8 to 34 per cent. In Woodford county the work has not been advanced far enough to get results from co-operative buying but in several Illinois counties by this plan large sums have been saved for the farmer and they have also been able to secure better quality. This year in Woodford county the farmers united for the purchase of clover seed and while the movement was inaugurated too late to get in on the low price the farmers were able to secure better seed than would otherwise have been true. The speaker said that the greatest value from a county advisor if not in the advice given but in the co-operative action which results with a community spirit developed and with the farmers working together it is possible to secure a great many benefits.

In Tazewell county, the organization of the Percheron Club which was accomplished a few years ago, has already brought exceptional results. The county now has the name of being the home of a fine line of Percheron horses and it is not infrequent for the county advisor to receive instructions from a non-resident to go out and buy a horse and ship it without inspection by the prospective owner.

SPECULATIVE WORK

In other counties specialization work has been done along the line of seed corn, wheat or oats, with the result that the county in question has secured the name and outside points of producing seed corn, wheat or oats that will give better results than that raised elsewhere and a demand has resulted which has enabled the farmers to secure much better prices for their products. In addition to such benefits as these, the farmers by co-operative efforts are able to use preventive methods against the boll weevil, chinook bugs and other insects which they could not possibly do alone. The same thing applies to a preventive measure against live stock diseases—and in counties where the farm advisor and crop association movements have been in existence for years the beneficial results are measured both positively and negatively. If a few bushels per acre are added to the production of any crop in a county it is easy to estimate that the costs of maintaining a crop bureau has been paid many times over and the same statement will apply if devastation from insects or disease has been prevented.

Troy Bishop, who is the farm advisor in McLean county said recently that he would consider the crop improvement work in that county a failure if it did not make for the county annually something like a million dollars. To increase crops means a study of the soil needs and as these needs vary with individual localities the farm advisors work becomes largely that of soils. Finding out the soil needs in the county in which he is working and then securing those crops or fertilizers which are best adapted to meeting those needs and conditions.

The Short Children.

The short children of Murrayville then gave a concert program. The time was when they were known only to the people of Murrayville but more recently their unusual musical talent has brought them into popularity in a wider area and each number yesterday was well received. The young people have evidently had the right kind of home training along with their musical work and their platform demeanor is especially praiseworthy.

Evening Program

The evening program opened with a pleasing concert by Jeffries band. Following this Mr. Dial introduced Prof. G. I. Christie of Purdue University, Indiana, who talked on the "Relation of Agriculture to the Schools."

Mr. Christie gave a splendid address on the ways and methods of keeping the boys on the farm, and of showing them how the farm could be run on a business basis. In his introductory remarks he told of how the fall of Rome was due to lack of production of the soil. He said that America must realize that farming must be made a business of instead of an occupation which requires no education. He said that in order to stop the farm to the city movement, the farmers had a great problem. They must show first the money that can be made on the farm if handled properly. Then they must show that life on the farm can be made just as attractive as in the cities. The only way to do these things properly is thru the schools.

The speaker told of how the agriculture schools throughout the country had shown that by using what people called scientific principles, but what are in reality common sense facts, they could nearly double the returns from live stock and poultry. Interesting statistics were given showing the difference in the cost and the result in dollars, where balanced and unbalanced rations were fed to all live stock.

In speaking of the methods of teaching in the rural schools the speaker said that until lately little effect had been produced. The teachers taught from books. More recently, however, they have been erecting experiment stations and the result has been extremely beneficiary. This is one way of keeping the boy on the farm, said Mr. Christie, interesting them at school and trying to show them how to make more money on the farm, instead of trying to tell them to study hard and make lawyers and manufacturers of themselves.

He also dwelt on how the farmer should make his community better socially. Young people must have some amusement and unless proper amusement is provided the young people will provide improper amusement.

Professor Christie explained that the reason many did not make a success of farming was that they did not run their farms on a business basis. Merchants with half as much capital invested will have bookkeepers, foremen and department managers. The farmer tries to run his farm alone.

In closing his address the speaker laid great stress upon getting efficient teachers for the agriculture departments of the rural and high schools. He attacked the rural school system as it has been run and urged the consolidation of more of the country schools and thus enabling better teachers and better conditions in general.

A moving picture program concluded the evening's program.

The management has announced that an auto carryall will be in service today to convey the people from the park entrance to the Chautauqua grounds. It is roomy and will carry thirty to forty people a trip. If patronage justifies, this transportation arrangement will continue thru the week.

As the program indicates there will be Sunday school this morning at ten o'clock and superintendents from various schools will share in directing the work. The vesper service in the evening will be conducted by Carl Weber.

The following facts about speakers at the Chautauqua today and Monday are taken from the program.

Arthur Walwyn Evans

Mr. Evans is a Welshman of rare platform gifts who has been so successful on the Chautauqua circuit that he has been induced to give up his former work and devote his entire time to lecturing and literary pursuits. No man on the platform is in greater demand.

Dr. Caroline Geisel

Dr. Geisel's lectures are admirably adapted to help young people in getting the right views of life and right methods of living. Sane, strong and intensely interesting, she is heard year after year at many of the best Chautauquas.

James Whitcomb Brougher

Mr. Brougher, California's most popular lecturer and preacher is a combination of Sam Jones and Billy Sunday in style and force. He will be heard in a popular address and the management commands him unreservedly as one of the greatest attractions on the Chautauqua circuit.

T. A. Daly

Mr. Daly in his most popular lecture, "New Neighbors," which is a philosophical and humorous discourse, deals largely with the Irish and Italian characters which figure so prominently in his poetry.

A new directory will be distributed by the Bell Telephone Company in September. The copy closes August 25th.

BIG MASONIC GATHERING

FRIDAY AT FRANKLIN

Members of the Masonic Lodge of Franklin are completing preparations for a special meeting Friday, when three candidates will be given the Master Mason's degree. The work will begin at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon and at the supper hour a banquet will be served. Masons from Jacksonville will assist in conferring the degrees and it is probable that a number of visitors will be present from Harmony and Jacksonville lodges as well as from the lodges of Woodson, Lynville and Scottville.

HOME FROM KANSAS.

E. L. Clark and Fred Henderson have returned from Eastern Kansas and western Missouri where they went to look after some Holstein cow. The counties directly south of Kansas City are developing pure breeds of cattle and the travelers inspected several herds of pure bred stock in that locality which is especially adapted to the cattle business as the land produces the finest of blue grass as well as all kinds of small grain and corn.

The hot, dry weather has cut the corn crop short all over the west just as is the case in this county. Messrs. Clark and Henderson were well pleased with their trip and expect to go back again in twenty days.

WILSON APPELS TO ROAD OFFICIALS

The road officials evidently feel that before a decision is reached every opportunity should be given other business interests to decide what might be the effect on them of an eight hour railroad day. Some of them believe many manufacturers and shippers are bound to register at the white house their opposition to this proposal.

Each part of the president's proposal is expected to be taken up separately and the answers given to the white house separately.

President Wilson welcomed the railroad officials in the blue room and after Mr. Holden had stated their position began a dramatic appeal which left his visitors sobered and thoughtful. At times striding up and down in front of the small group and emphasizing telling points by shaking his fists, the president told the railroad executives bluntly he believed they should accept his plan.

"We must face the naked truth in this crisis," he said. "We must not discuss impractical things. We must get down to a basis on which this situation can be solved."

Only Object to Avoid Break.

Mr. Wilson pointed out that he represented the 100,000,000 people of the nation, everyone of whom had a deep interest in the threatened strike. He said his only object was to avoid a break. In a voice raising at times so that it could be heard outside the closed doors he declared he had tried to bring about arbitration, that his efforts had failed and that he had no way of forcing its acceptance.

Congress, he declared, would not pass a compulsory arbitration law.

While the brotherhood men were in session today at their hall the president sent word that they might excuse their members until Monday. Tonight they are leaving town for nearby resorts by scores.

The brotherhood leaders said that they might stay another week if it seemed necessary. They expect a climax in the situation Monday or Tuesday, however.

Many of the brotherhood men called on their representatives in congress today and protested in advance against compulsory arbitration bills which might be introduced. There is only one bill that the brotherhood men are anxious to see come out of the present agitation. That would be a measure to empower the government in case of a strike to operate the railways with the present crews on an eight hour basis pending a settlement of the differences between the railroads and their employees. One of the leaders "guessed" today that such a bill would be introduced in case of a strike.

Claim Strike Could Be Broken.

Among railway executives the claim was made that a strike could be broken within a week. It was declared the idea that the country's commerce would be stopped immediately was entirely wrong.

The claim was made that many of the old engineers would refuse to strike and that with these men the railroads would be able to continue operation of trains. Some time ago the managements were said to have called for volunteers to serve in the event of a walkout.

Many responses were received it was asserted from among the 400,000 men in shop service, engaged in building or repairing locomotives.

and are familiar with their operation.

These claims are all denied vehemently by the brotherhood men who contend they have so firm a grasp on the situation that they could bring the roads speedily to terms should a strike be called.

The western road executives summoned by the president today are: Louis W. Hill, Great Northern; J. M. Hannaford, Northern Pacific; J. M. Dickinson, Rock Island; E. F. Kearney, Wabash; W. C. Nixon, St. Louis and San Francisco; H. U. Mudge, Denver & Rio Grande; C. M. Levy, Western Pacific; W. G. Besler, Central Railroad of New Jersey; E. Pennington, Minnesota; St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie; M. H. Smith, Louisville & Nashville; C. E. Schaff, Gould, St. Louis & Southwest.

Tonight the railroad presidents here sent to the White House a list of about seventy other officials whom they thought should be invited to the next conference if the president expects it to be a representative gathering.

SWEDEN WILL HONOR HER FAMOUS SINGER

Christine Nilsson One of Greatest Lyrical Artist World Has Known Still Idolized in Land of Birth.

Stockholm, Aug. 19—A little more than a quarter of a century ago, or to be exact, thirty-one years ago, Christine Nilsson, one of the world's greatest lyrical and dramatic artists, at the zenith of her fame, with the musical world at her feet, retired from the stage and returned to private life. When the operatic managers evidenced the desire to use her and her voice and dramatic power as so much merchandise to institute a series of farewell performances stretching over a number of years, then the great singer withdrew. Her art was more to her than mere wealth.

This happened only thirty-one years ago, and yet, to the great mass of her former American friends and admirers, she is probably only a memory and her present situation unknown.

But in Sweden, the land of her birth and the country which she has always called home, the Countess de Miranda, as the famous singer is known in private life, is still idolized by the people. Tomorrow, on the beginning of her seventy-fifth year, the love and esteem in which the singer is held by all classes of the people will be given expression in a national tribute, the like of which has seldom been witnessed in this or any other land. For one entire week the opera houses and theaters in Stockholm and other cities will be given over to Nilsson testimonial performances. In addition, there is to be a great public reception at which the singer will be greeted by all classes, from prince to peasant.

At this reception the former prima donna will be presented with a medal especially designed in honor of the occasion. The obverse side of the medal, which was designed by Eric Lindberg, bears the bust of Christine Nilsson at the height of her fame, and on the reverse side appears an allegorical composition with appropriate inscription. The cost of the medal was defrayed by public subscription. Among the contributors to the fund were the King and Queen, the Crown Prince and other members of the royal family of Sweden. The names of several prominent Americans also appear among the subscribers.

Christine Nilsson was born in the hamlet of Husbaby, on the southern confines of the Swedish peninsula. She was the eighth child of Nilsson, a worthy peasant, who lived by husbandry, and maintained, with the aid of his numerous family, a farm, belonging to Count Hamilton. The cot occupied by the seven brothers and sisters was lowly. In her earliest childhood Christine was not distinguished among her sisters. With them she was sent to a country school to learn, at the expense of the Commonwealth, reading and writing. Her father, who was an impassioned admirer of music and the leading singer in his church, taught her the first scale of the musical notes. As she grew in form as well as in beauty she had to perform a share of the household labors and sometimes to work in the fields. But Christine when still at home, seized upon the instrument of her brother Carl, the village fiddler, and repeated by ear the national airs she had heard him play. The neighbors were loud in their approbation of the child's voice, which they deemed wonderful in one so young. Carl then conceived the scheme of increasing his slender gains in taking his sister to the fairs and weddings, at which his services were needed. The realization of the idea was most excellent. The tiny girl attracted the crowd and held it spellbound.

At one of the fairs the little singer attracted the attention and admiration of a noted magistrate of the district. He offered to take the little child into his own family and attend to her musical education. Thus was Christine started on the road to fame and fortune. She studied under Berwald, and later in Paris was tutored by Victor J. Nasse and Wartel. Her operatic debut was made in Stockholm in 1860. When she first appeared in London, seven years later, she scored a great success, especially in "Faust." Then came a triumphal tour of the European capitals. In 1870 she made her first appearance in New York and repeated the success which she had already won on this side of the Atlantic.

The famous singer was twice married. Her first husband was a Frenchman, Auguste Rouzand, who died in 1882. In 1887 she took for her second husband Conut de Miranda, and with her wedding retired permanently from the operatic stage. Count de Miranda died in France in 1902.

FRANCIS JOSEPH'S BIRTHDAY
Bern, Aug. 18—A despatch from Vienna says that the eighty-sixth birthday anniversary of Emperor Francis Joseph is being made the occasion today for patriotic observances in the capital and throughout Austria and Hungary. The Te Deums are being celebrated in all the churches throughout the dual monarchy. The Emperor received innumerable telegrams of congratulation, including cordial messages from Emperor William and Czar Ferdinand of Bulgaria. In accordance with the desire of His Majesty the most of the funds collected to celebrate his birthday anniversary will be employed for the relief of the war sufferers.

REV. C. M. EAMES STARTS RETURN TRIP TO CHINA

Will Preach in St. Louis Today and Then Proceed to Coast.

Rev. Charles M. Eames left yesterday afternoon for St. Louis where he is to preach today and then he will proceed at once to his field of work in Tsining, Shantung province, China, sailing on the steamship Tenyo Maru from San Francisco. He expects to go by way of Shanghai, China, and reach his field of labor Sept. 25th. The young gentleman has been in the foreign work eight years which entitles him to a vacation or furlough of twenty months which he enjoyed with friends at home and partly also in study in Chicago.

Mr. Eames was visited by the writer three years ago and was found active and successful. He has a work largely evangelistic and has a field embracing some five million people and he ministers to as many as possible and his work counts for much. He is under the auspices of the Presbyterian board of missions and is connected with a plant embracing a gentleman and lady physician with a small hospital, a school for boys, a school for girls, a church and other agencies for good and the uplift of the people. He has mastered the fearful language so that he can go among the people carrying the blessed message with success and he is greatly beloved by a host of persons to whom he has delivered the good news. He will be followed by good wishes of many at home.

MANCHESTER.

Herbert McConnel and wife, C. D. Chapman and family, motored to Glasgow to the Pow Wow Friday afternoon in the McConnel Ford car.

Mrs. Anna-Sloan Walker and daughter Alberta left Thursday afternoon for Seattle, Wash., after an extended visit with her mother, Mrs. Mary Sloan. Mrs. Walker will teach school in Seattle this winter.

Miss Little Vantyle of Roodhouse visited her aunt, Mrs. V. A. Hughes, Thursday.

Miss Vivian Green of Winchester is visiting Miss Mary McCracken.

Miss Anna R. Strickland, of Agency, Iowa, is here for a two week's visit with friends. She came to attend the Vossteller-Strickland wedding in White Hall.

Harold Billings of White Hall is visiting his grandmother, Mrs. Eliza Billings.

Elmer Alred and wife of Roodhouse, have been here. The latter will remain for a while.

James Cooksey, Mrs. Ella Curtis and Mrs. Belle Potts were passengers to Jacksonville Friday.

Miss Sarah Small of Colfax, visited friends here this week and attended the picnic.

The annual fish and burgoo picnic given by the Baptist people, was declared a success financially and every other way. While at this time the net proceeds of the day are not known, yet a goodly sum was added to the church treasury. For a time that morning the weather was very uncertain but by noon the clouds had passed away and the day was clear and fine. The attendance was good considering that all around were similar gatherings that day which no doubt divided the attendance at each place. Eighty-five gallons of ice cream were sold besides the meals served. Wm. H. Day, Sr., of Alsey, fried the fish and it was done to suit the taste of all.

Chas. Day made the burgoo soup which suited those who eat soup. Rawlin's band of Roodhouse furnished music. A number of contests were given during the afternoon. In all the affair was a decided success.

Fifteen cars of White Hall boosters invaded our town Thursday in the interest of the chautauqua to be held in White Hall Aug. 23-27, and the fellows did some loud advertising for the affair to be. They were well supplied with advertising literature and programs which were distributed very freely. Elder A. T. Ewart was the chief spokesman for the crowd. Great enthusiasm prevailed for the coming event which doubtless will attract many people next week to the city of White Hall. An excellent program is in readiness for the time.

TRAVELERS FROM THE SOUTH

J. H. Jennings and four children all of Greenwood, Missouri, passed through the city yesterday on their way home after a visit with friends in Virginia. Mr. Jennings said he found pretty good roads everywhere except in Virginia and West Virginia where they were not so good. He had full camping outfit with him and seemed to be having a successful trip in his Overland car. He visited the Natural Bridge and several points of interest, though he was not interested in the twenty or more toll gates they traveled in the south. He was told that if they would come north they might travel all over as good roads as theirs and would pay nothing except ferry charges possible across a river.

Mr. Jennings secured supplies and set sail for Hannibal. He proved to be a very pleasant and affable gentleman.

SERVICES AT CENTRAL PARK.
For those who are not going to the Chautauqua, or are not going before 7:30, there will be the usual service at Central Park. The subject of the sermon will be, "Astonishing Exclusions." You are invited to attend.

EQUAL SUFFRAGE NOTES

The Illinois Equal Suffrage Association will hold its annual convention early in October. This meeting is a primary importance for here it is that the future of the organization will be determined.

The Executive Board, comprising seven officers and nine directors, will be elected and on their shoulders will rest the responsibility of guiding the suffrage ship of state during the coming year. The Convention is made up of its present Executive Board and delegates from the 210 affiliated organizations, and, from this body, the directorate will be chosen. All nominations are made from the floor, on the first day of the Convention. Any club desiring representation upon the State Board can try for the same by sending delegates to this Convention and instructing them to nominate one of their number and work for her election. No person, however, shall be placed in nomination who has not consented to serve in case she is elected.

With the emergency convention of the National American Woman Suffrage association only three weeks off, final plans are being formulated for the five day session at Atlantic City from September 6th to 10th inclusive. The Convention Headquarters are to be at the Marlborough-Blenheim and the sessions are to be held at the Nixon Theatre and at St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal Church. Among the features of the convention will be a three-concerned debate as to whether the National Association shall pursue state, federal, or state and federal action for equal suffrage. Miss Laura Clay of Kentucky, Miss Ida Husted Harper of New York and Mrs. Raymond Brown of New York will present the respective arguments after which the Convention body will vote on the question. Among the distinguished men and women who will address the Convention are Miss Julia Lathrop, Chief of the Children's Bureau, U. S. Department of Labor, Dr. Katherine Bement Davis, Chief Parole Commissioner, New York City, Secretary of War, Newton D. Baker, Mrs. Raymond Robins, President National Woman's Trade Union League, Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, Dr. Anna Howard Shaw and others. The first night of the convention of the New Jersey State Woman's Suffrage Association and the Woman's Suffrage Club of Atlantic City will tender a reception to delegates and visitors.

The Congressional Committee of the National Woman Suffrage Association at Washington is employing the following method to determine the stand taken by candidates for Congress on the suffrage question. A questionnaire has been sent to each candidate containing the following questions:

1. Are you in favor of woman suffrage?

2. If elected, will you vote in Congress to submit to the states a federal amendment to enfranchise the women of this country?

3. If appointed on a Committee in whose jurisdiction such an amendment should follow, will you do all in your power to expedite the passage of such a measure?

These questions were sent first to Pennsylvania and so far there has been time for only "return mail" replies. These, however, are significant. Out of 19 candidates from Pennsylvania who have replied, 16 have answered "Yes" to all three questions. The other 3 have not said "No" but have asked for more time. Suffragists are very happy because of these favorable replies. Such inquiries have been sent in previous years but the difference in the tone of the replies and in the actual number replying is amazing. Men who have up to this time, ignored and evaded such questions are now writing frank replies and pledging whatever is wished.

AUTO LICENSES.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 19.—Altho the regular time for renewing automobile state licenses is almost five months away—January 1, 1917—automobile owners are already beginning to show signs of a perennial disease.

It is a two headed disease. One head is a mortal fear of getting an unlucky license number, the number charged with most high crimes and misdemeanors being "13." The other head of the disease is an uncontrollable desire for a certain number.

This week the automobile license department received a request from an up-state automobile owner for license No. 1. He thought by getting in early he could get the coveted numeral. He was destined to disappointment.

Auto license No. 1 has been riding around on the car of Sidney Gorham, a Chicago attorney, almost since the state license law went into effect about the ear 1907. Mr. Gorham was attorney for the Illinois Automobile club which was interested in the law when it was still a bill in the legislature, and he was the first to apply for a license.

At about the time this request was received there came another request from a man with number 13,013. That number has been haunting him for six months. He believed one number 13 would be bad enough to have a "13" on each end of his number leaving nothing in the middle, was more than any automobile owner could stand. Since he wanted a license for a new car, the number was changed.

There are now 250,000 licenses in effect.

ASSOCIATED PRESS CORRESPONDENCE

The Hague, Netherlands, Aug. 18.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—A bill to ratify the Bryan treaty signed at Washington on December 18, 1913, between Holland and the United States, agreeing to submit all differences whatsoever to a permanent international commission for inquiry and report, has been discussed in the Sections or Committees of the Second Chamber.

Critics were not wanting, but on the whole the bill seems to have had a good reception. Several members express their satisfaction that, despite what was going on in surrounding countries, the government continues to attach value to treaties which aim at preventing wars, and expressed the view that endeavors must continue to be made to further peace by this agency.

While one or two deputies termed the value of such an agreement doubtful and even regarded it as not without danger that the international commission would become acquainted with all kinds of documents and correspondence, others attached great importance to the treaty, pointing out that it may be especially practical in view of the nearness of the Philippines to the Dutch East Indian possessions and with a view to Holland's West Indian colonies.

London, August.—Next to the war the abnormal weather which has harassed England so far this year is the most talked of thing in the country. A sunny day so far this season is an event. The same holds true of all northern Europe where weather of kind resembling March has prevailed throughout June and July. In Russia there has been an unusual amount of rain and excessive cold. In Moscow up to the middle of July there had been no sign of summer or of the hot weather which generally sets in before June. In Scandinavia the weather has been cheerless and very similar to that in this country. In Southern Germany violent rains have fallen and Lake Constance is abnormally high, while in Austria there have been tremendous storms.

South of the Alps excessively hot weather has been reported for many weeks. In Sardinia there has been a heat wave which has been followed by forest fires.

Amsterdam Netherlands, Aug. 18.—Now that the entente allies have taken the offensive on all fronts, the Germans are more than ever reckoning with the possibility of an attempt to land British troops on the Flemish coast, according to a frontier correspondent of the Amsterdam Telegraaf. The marine corps has been reinforced while a whole army of military workmen has been seen at the port of Zeebrugge. Recently an alarm was suddenly sounded at half past ten at night and the garrison there hurried to their posts. It turned out that no attack threatened but the whole affair was a rehearsal of the operations for repelling a landing. The coastal guns suddenly belched forth, while the rattle of the mitrailleuses could be heard at Flushing. The entire maneuver lasted about half an hour.

Seoul, Korea, Aug.—The government general of Korea will present albums to President Wilson containing photographs of historic relics in Korea. Albums will also be presented to the King of Great Britain, the president of France and the Emperor of Russia as well as to other rulers and high personages.

Peking, Aug.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—Not content with surrounding Yuan Shih-ka's death by many and suggesting that he either killed himself or was poisoned, the enemies of the late president are now suggesting that he is not dead at all, but has made his escape to a foreign land and shielded his associates in alleged financial irregularities by means of the funeral and changed government.

This astounding view is not confined to mere word-of-mouth gossip, but has found its way into the Chinese press, and is apparently believed by some Chinese, particularly those of the coolie class.

An anonymous letter writer whose communication appears in the Peking Daily Gazette says: "Do you think anyone is so stupid to believe that Yuan Shih-ka is dead, or this whole piece of public theatrical by which we have just been entertained is anything more than a huge and very successful practical joke perpetrated by those implicated in China's misfortunes so as to free themselves from the grip of justice?"

"Just allow me to run over the scenes in this recent farce. First: The banks were robbed officially and a lot of other depredations committed. There was no way to escape the consequences except by bearing all the blame on one person and then smuggling him away in feigned death."

"Second: The other participants in the crime had sufficient latent power at the time of Yuan Shih-ka's 'death', and his successor had sufficient generosity to accord Yuan Shih-ka the burial of a national hero."

In concluding his letter the correspondent says: "Talk of foreign experts! What are foreign experts, but so many associated for the chicanery to a corrupt bureaucracy? Does China need any foreign advice—or has she ever taken any—in the tricks of politics, diplomacy, finance, electioneering, or of journalism? China can give tips to corrupt world in any of the fine arts of statecraft. I do not refer to professional experts. When you buy a machine in any country or embark in anything new, you get a man to show you its work; but the Chinese are past masters at anything in statecraft."

London, Aug. 12.—By lifting the veil of secrecy to an extent hitherto unheard of in the present war and allowing the British public to get a clearer view of what is going on at the front, the War Office has made a Vladivostok, Aug.—Two hundred cars are leaving Vladivostok daily for Siberia and Russia, with the result that the freight congestion has been relieved. Private cargo, as well as government supplies, is now moving. Recently there has been a slackness in government supplies. Consequently the goods of commercial concerns have moved with considerable freedom.

Many additional slips for ships have been arranged in the harbor, but this has not increased the capacity of the port for general trade to any considerable extent as heavy air supplies coming from the United States monopolize the quays much of the time.

Hongkong, Aug.—Elmer B. Hammon, an American member of the Pentecostal mission at Hongkong, was killed in a wreck on the Kowloon-Canton railway, June 15, near Funglong. Robbers had undermined the track, and robbed the passengers after the train was derailed. One Chinese was killed, and twenty-two others seriously injured in the wreck.

Through the political strife which is going on in Kwangtung province, officials have lost control of the robber bands which are plundering and making trouble in many parts of the province.

Peking, Aug. 8.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—Li Yuan-hung's mandates putting into force the provisional Nanking constitution reconvening the parliament which Yuan Shih-ka abandoned, and authorizing the immediate adoption of a permanent constitution are in striking contrast to the long mandates issued by Yuan Shih-ka. The new president uses few words and avoids the flowery language which characterized the official documents of his predecessor.

For instance some of the mandates in full are as brief as follows: "In accordance with art. 53 of the Provisional Constitution, the National Assembly will continue its session on the 1st of August of this Year."

The Ministry of Interior is hereby ordered to convert the Bureau for the Preparation of the Li Fa Yuan into a preparation Bureau for the establishment of the Permanent National Assembly and make all arrangements for the convocation of same."

The Censorate attached to the Administrative Court is hereby abolished."

Paris, Aug.—The British officers' "swagger stick" is seen again in the delicate bejeweled hands of French society women in the Bois de Boulogne. It is the third time in recent years that the fashion of "canes for women" has been tried. They appeared at Trouville in 1898 in the hands of a well known Parisian authoress. A spasmodic attempt to introduce it was made soon after the British troops began disembarking in French ports but it got no farther than the boulevards. The boulevards finally tired of it, then the fashionable "faubourgs" took it up.

It is carried only in the Bois de Boulogne and it goes with the inevitable short skirt, with garters preferably to high boots and with a jacket having four pockets and resembling, even to the brass buttons, the regulation khaki uniform of the British officer. A jaunty velvet toque resembling the army fatigue cap completes the martial air of the costume. The fashion has not been so general since the Directory, about the same time that London tried "muffs for men" and while Vienna was experimenting with "monocles for women."

London, Aug.—Bright news from the war zones is the best stimulation to shopping; bad news from the front has quite the reverse effect. "Perhaps the greatest optimist on a day when all the communiques of the Allies were favorable," said a West End shop keeper, "was the woman who came to the men's department of our store and bought a civilian outfit for her soldier husband at a bargain price. The war will be over in three months" she announced. "When the men come back clothes will go up with a bang. My husband will find that I have every thing ready for him when he puts away his khaki."

Peking, Aug.—Chen Chin-tao, whom President Li Yuan-hung has just appointed the minister of finance, is probably the best minister of financial expert in China. He was educated at the University of California and at Yale. He also spent nearly a year in Washington studying the methods of the American Treasury Department, preparing a Chinese bureau of printing and engraving.

Mr. Chen is forty-five years old. In 1911 he became vice president of the Bank of China, and later president of the same institution.

When Yuan Shih-ka formed his government, just before the end of the Manchu regime, Chen Chin-tao was designated as vice minister of finance. His latest government appointment was in 1914, when he was sent to London as Chinese financial commissioner to Europe with the rank of a minister.

Chen Chin-tao has always been a Republican of the deepest dye, and is acceptable to the reformers who were so bitter in their denunciation of the monarchial movement. The Chinese press, representing all political parties, commends him as a man singularly qualified for the ministry of finance.

London, Aug. 12.—By lifting the veil of secrecy to an extent hitherto unheard of in the present war and allowing the British public to get a clearer view of what is going on at the front, the War Office has made a

33 4/5 Horse Power From This Powerful MAXWELL ENGINE

Almost 34 horse-power from this regular stock Maxwell engine!

34 actual, brake horse-power!

Proved by an accurate dynamometer test, made in the Maxwell laboratories August 10, 1916.

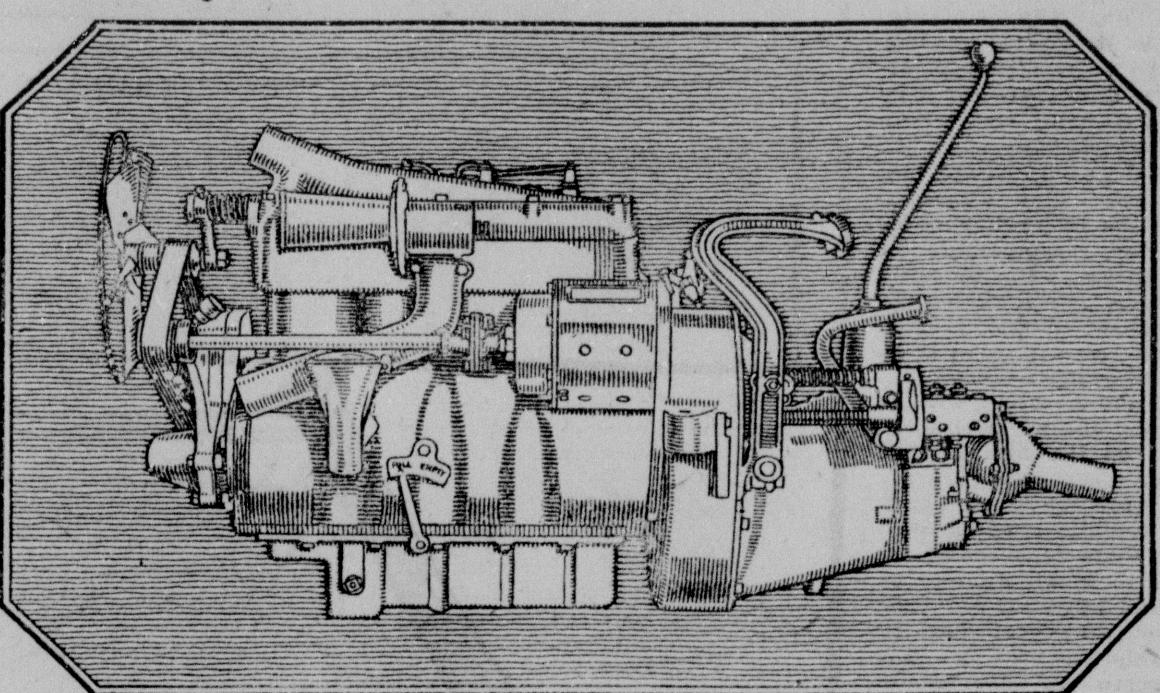

There has been a lot of talk about horse-power, and we just want to let Maxwell owners and prospective owners know that in respect to horse-power, as in most other respects, the Maxwell leads by a comfortable margin. Not that we attach such great importance to horse-power. We don't. We never have.

Horse-power—abundant horse-power—is only one of many superior features of the Maxwell.

We are selling motor cars—complete motor cars—not engines or horse-power.

Horse-power is a matter that is secondary to motor efficiency and economy.

A giant has no advantage if he does not apply, or wrongly applies, his strength.

Maxwell cars have horse-power—all you want or need—probably more per pound of car weight than any other automobile in the world.

But we don't make any loud cry about it.

Because we have more than horse-power to sell you.

Because you are, and should be, interested in results, the net effectiveness of power.

We challenge competitive tests. We invite comparison.

Because we absolutely know that no car of its class or weight can surpass the Maxwell on speedways, on rough roads, through sand or mud, anywhere.

And because we know, and you will know, that, everything considered, the Maxwell is the World's Greatest Motor Car Value!

EST STATE ST.

tremendously popular move. This revolution in departmental methods started with the Anglo-French offensive. Its effect on the people has been magical.

The British public is now being derived generously on what it was deprived of for nearly two years, namely personal doings of the soldiers. And they like it. Incidentally, added importance is attached to the new order of things simply because the British government is not easily convinced of the wisdom of departing from old customs. Its about the most revolutionary occurrence since the war began.

To begin with the public realizes that there is still much that must be hidden from them but they are very grateful for the concessions made. The people realize further that this war must be largely an anonymous war and that it is inadvisable to describe, except after a long interval the deeds of particular regiments or divisions.

But in other respects the veil has been lifted and the British public has been permitted to read many moving stories which present the war to those who stay at home in a truer light than ever before.

Generally speaking these are the sources of information which are now available to the public. First and foremost there are the dispatches from the British Commander-in-Chief, Sir Douglas Haig, who, as a rule sends from the general headquarters in France, two bulletins each day summarizing in military language the gains, or losses, which the armies under his command have experienced during the day or night. These are occasionally supplemented by messages which, coming from the accredited war correspondents at headquarters, may be regarded as semi-official.

Reverting to the improved arrangements for keeping the public informed on what is going on in the Daily Chronicle compliments the War Office and says of the newspaper:

per correspondents: "There are now five representatives of British newspapers attached to the General Headquarters, and Frederick Palmer of the American Associated Press is privileged to join this select band. They are housed in a chateau somewhere behind the firing line—at their own expense and let it be said—and from this newspaper nerve center they are free to come and go almost as they like."

Consonant with military exigencies they are practically allowed a free hand. As it is obviously the duty of a newspaper correspondent to preserve a whole skin, this freedom is tempered by discretion, but they must take many risks, and in these days of long range artillery they are bound to spend most of their days as well as their nights under fire."

The expansion with regard to the pictorial side of the war is not less remarkable than the development of the literary side. One supplements the other. Some remarkable photographs have come from France since the recent offensive began. Many of them perhaps have done as much as the written description of events to stir the imagination.

Then there is the moving picture operator who has his place, not only behind the lines, but often at the fighting front. Many films which even now are of absorbing interest, and which in days to come will be of historical value, have been taken. Like everything else they have to be given to the world, but unlike the written word buried under the official blue pencil, these temporally suppressed selections may be revived hereafter when the war is a sad memory.

Vienna, Aug.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—General satisfaction is being expressed over the decision of the admiralty to remove from its namesake grave the government practically all the body of John Travers Cornwell, the metal they possess, but manufacturers ers, dealers, inn-keepers, restaurants, bakers, sugar refineries, associations of all kinds, cloisters, hospitals, sanatoria and convalescent homes, bathing resorts, schools and educational institutions and countless similar organizations are going to have to surrender a large variety of materials.

Here is the reference in Admiral Beatty's report concerning the hero, who was 16 years old:

"Boy (first class) John Travers Cornwell of the Chester was mortally wounded early in the action. He nevertheless remained standing at a most exposed post quietly awaiting orders until the end of the action, with the gun's crew dead and wounded all around him. I regret that he has since died, but I recommend his case for special recognition in justice to his memory and has an acknowledgement of the high example set by him."

The body was at first hastily buried in a common grave in Manor Park with only the number "323" upon plain piece of wood to mark his resting place. In response to a letter received from the boy's mother, the admiralty has written announcing its decision to have proper honor done to his memory. The new grave will be in Manor Park cemetery or in a place to be selected by the mother.

Cornwell was a member of a working class family, the head of which is fighting in the field. His mother stated in an interview that the boy's single desire from boyhood had been to join the navy as a sailor. He tried to enlist when the war began but the father would not sign his papers until August, 1915, when he went to Davenport for training.

Vienna, Aug.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—By far the most comprehensive campaign for the collection of metal that Vienna has known since the beginning of the war has been ordered. Not only must individuals turn over to the government practically all the metal they possess, but manufacturers receiving metal articles have been created to handle the arduous task of collecting all the available metal in Vienna. Up to the beginning of the compulsory surrender of metals, voluntary surrenders will be received as they are made. After that the city will specify days of surrender for all persons with names beginning with the letters A, B, etc. At the conclusion of the collection there will be granted a one-day leeway during which delinquents can explain why they have not turned in their possessions.

In case the owner of metal utensils subject to surrender cannot afford in advance to purchase substitutes, they will be purchased for him and their price deducted from the amount allowed him for his copper or nickel things. If the latter is less than the cost of his new material, the city will bear the difference unless the utensils he turns in are not in usable condition.

How She Was Relieved from Pain by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Taunton, Mass.—"I had pains in both sides and when my periods came I had to stay at home from work and suffer a long time. One day a woman came to our house and asked my mother why I was suffering. Mother told her that I suffered every month and she said, 'Why don't you buy a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?' My mother bought it and the next month I was so well that I worked all the month without staying at home a day. FORETOLD HIS OWN DOOM.

Lord Kitchener Felt That He Would Lose His Life at Sea.

Lord Kitchener had a sort of foreboding of an accident at sea. So much was this the case that he never crossed from Dover to Calais without wearing a life belt waistcoat, one that he had specially made for him in Egypt before he made his famous advance to Khartum.

Though so often on the sea and an excellent sailor, he detested sea trips and never felt comfortable on board any ship. He complained that the sea affected his sight.

Another curious point was that while he always acquired curios in any part of the world in which he might be, he took care never to allow his purchase to be on the vessel on which he was a passenger.

When Lord Kitchener was in France a few months before he lost his life at sea off the Orkney Islands he was visiting the British front. There he met his friend, the naval Captain Testu de Ballincourt, then on service at Dunkirk, whom Lord Kitchener asked to be his special aid if he should need one later during the war.

Lord Kitchener told his friend how a heavy shell had burst close to him while on this visit, but added, "That did not disturb me, for I know that I shall die at sea."—New York Sun.

STREETS OF LONDON.

A Name System That Is Confusing Even to Residents of the City.

When it comes to confusing street systems London should not be overlooked. Some consider it the most confusing, even Londoners not always being sure of locations.

As an example of what one meets in the British capital a man once asked to be directed to a certain house on King street. He was sent in one direction. When he did not come to King street as soon as he expected he was sent again for King street and was sent in an opposite direction. Again not sure of his direction, he asked a third time for King street and was asked which King street he wanted.

The question stumped him, not knowing that London has nineteen King streets. This number does not include the King streets in London's suburbs.

If this man who wanted King street had asked for Queen street his predicament would have been even greater, for there are thirty-four Queen streets in London.

Great as the city is, it is far behind New York in regard to a comprehensive street system, even though corners of New York such as Greenwich Village are most confusing.—Exchange

They Took the Lash.

One of the traditions of the British Royal Yacht club is of Lord Yarborough's Falcon, the crew of which were paid extra wages on condition that they submitted to the usual rules in force on British vessels of war. These included flogging under certain circumstances, and it is said that in consideration of the additional sum paid by Lord Yarborough some of the crew cheerfully submitted to the occasional application of the cat-o'-nine-tails.

"Indeed, before the Falcon left Plymouth sound for cruise all hands cordially signed a paper setting forth the usefulness of sound flogging in cases of extremity and their perfect willingness to undergo the experiment whenever it was deemed necessary for the preservation of good order."

Superstitions About Hares.

There have been at various periods all manner of queer superstitions about hares, which would seem to indicate that the believers were themselves madder than any hare that ever gambled in March. Its brains were believed to make children's teeth come quickly and painlessly; those who ate its flesh became lovely and gracious for a week after; a waistcoat made of hare's skin strengthened the bodies both of young and old, etc. Even today there are those who take as an evil omen the crossing of the road before them by this most innocent of creatures.—London Chronicle.

Too Slow.

Mr. Slowgait (about to propose; time 11 p. m.)—I am about to say something, Miss Chillington, that I should have said some time ago. Look into my eyes and tell me if you cannot guess what it is. Miss Chillington (suppressing yawn)—You look as sleepy as I feel, so I suppose you must be going to say "Good night."—Stray Stories.

A Clever Reply.

Mme. de Maintenon once asked Lord Stair why it was that the affairs of government were so badly managed in France under a king and so well managed in England under a queen. "For that very reason," replied the English ambassador, "for when a man reigns the women rule him, and when a woman reigns she is ruled by men."

Sorrow.

Sorrow is not an incident occurring now and then. It is the wool which is woven into the warp of life, and he who has not discerned the divine sadness of sorrow and the profound meaning which is concealed in pain has yet to learn what life is.—F. W. Robertson.

Sample.

"George didn't keep his engagement with me last night," said the girl who was betrothed to him.

"I'd give him a piece of my mind," said her mother.

"Just a little sample of married life," suggested father.—Cleve and Leader.

MOVED THE LOGGAN STONE.

Then He Had the Costly Job of Moving It Back Again.

Do you know what happens to the iconoclast who attempts to prove to the world that there is nothing in its pet superstitions? Did you ever hear the story of the British naval lieutenant who demonstrated the fact that there was nothing supernatural about the Loggan stone? Out there at the tip of Land's End, close to where the pirates of Penzance used to hold forth, the huge mass of rock rested on the top of the cliff, so delicately poised that a child could make it rock this way and that. A gust of wind would set it to vibrating, and yet for hundreds of years it had been believed that no earthly force could dislodge it from its position. Then along came the lieutenant, who laughed at all such silly superstition. He would prove to the deluded people of Cornwall that the Loggan stone could be dumped into the sea by the physical prowess of a few sturdy sailors.

Luckily for his position in the navy of his majesty, George IV., the lieutenant succeeded only in hurling the charmed rock a little way down the cliff, where it lodged in a shelving crevice, for such a howl went up, not only from the guides and tavern people who made a living off of the tourists who came to see the quivering boulder, but from the antiquaries and scientists who believed that the rock had been delicately poised there by the druid priests or that it illustrated a little understood force of nature, that the admiralty sent word to the impious young officer that he would either restore the Loggan stone to its place or forfeit his. A derrick and a month's salary were required to set the stone in its place.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

ANTIQUITY OF CHEESE.

The Bible Mentions It, as Do Homer and Other Early Writers.

Cheese and curdling of the milk are mentioned in the book of Job. David was sent by his father, Jesse, to carry ten cheeses to the camp and to look how his brother fared. "Cheese or kine" formed part of the supplies of David's army at Mahanaim during the rebellion of Absalom.

Homer says that cheese formed part of the ample stores found by Ulysses in the cave of the Cyclop Polyphemus. Euripides, Theocritus and other early poets mention cheese. Ludolpus says that excellent cheese and butter were made by the ancient Ethiopians, and Strabo states that some of the ancient Britons were so ignorant that, though they had abundance of milk, they did not understand the art of making cheese.

There is no evidence that any of these ancient nations had discovered the use of rennet in making cheese. They appear to have merely allowed the milk to sour and subsequently to have formed the cheese from the coagulated part of the milk after expelling the serum or whey.

As David when too young to carry arms was able to run to the camp with ten cheeses, ten loaves and an ephah of parched corn, the cheeses must have been very small.

Wonderful Earrings.

The earrings of Blote, the daughter of Aristotle, which were found in Chalcis, where the young woman was buried, represented doves swinging in golden hoops. The miniature birds were marvelously wrought, the feathers of granulated gold, the wings and breasts enriched with bands of color supplied by inserted gems. Precious stones gleamed like tiny sparks for the eyes. Daintiest device of all, the tail feathers were so finely made and curiously adjusted as to move at the slightest motion of the pendant hoop, so that whenever the proud wearer should toss or shake her head two attendant doves would seem to balance themselves upon their perches, as live birds do in swinging on a bough. They were found by exploring archaeologists.

Overpowered.

"Are you sure you are strong enough to carry this trunk up three flights of stairs?" asked the maiden lady of the roustabout she had summoned.

"Sure, mom," he responded heartily. "How much do I get out of it?"

"Why, if you don't break anything or spoil the walls I'll give you 10 cents."

"Sorry, mom, but I couldn't git away wid dat heavy trunk."

"Why, a minute ago you were sure we were strong enough."

"I was, but yer generosity has made me weak."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Ancient Memory.

In the ancient time men's memories were much more powerful than they are today. The invention of printing necessarily weakened the memory. We can scarcely form an idea of what the memory must have been when it was exercised and cultivated as a thing of sole dependence.—New York American.

FEEDING DAIRY COWS

Many Factors to Be Considered in Economical Milk Production—Pasturing Not Always Profitable.

One of the most common mistakes in the feeding of dairy cows on the farm is that the good cows are not given a sufficient quantity of feed above that required for their physical maintenance to obtain the maximum quantity of milk they are capable of producing. Successful feeding of dairy cows involves the providing of an abundant supply of palatable, nutritious feed at a minimum cost and feeding in such a way as to receive the largest milk production from the feed consumed.

Feeding for profit is defined as liberal feeding, or feeding to the full capacity of the cow, in new Farmers' Bulletin of the department, No. 743, The Feeding of Dairy Cows, which discusses many of the factors involved in economical feeding.

From a standpoint of economical milk production, a dairy cow generally should not be fed more than she will consume without gaining in weight. There are times, however, according to the bulletin, when it is desirable to make exceptions to this rule. Practically all heavy milk producers lose weight in the early part of their lactation period; that is, they produce milk at the expense of their body flesh. When such cows approach the end of their milking period they normally regain the flesh they have lost, and the farmer can well afford to feed them liberally, with the assurance that he will be repaid in the form of milk when the cows again freshen.

Pasture is the natural feed for cows, and for average conditions, with ample pasture of good grasses or legumes in good, succulent condition, good production can be secured.

The cost of land is a factor in the economy of using pasture, however. If pastures are depended upon entirely for four to six months of the year, and production is kept up to a profitable standard, anywhere from 1 to 4 acres or more must be provided for each cow, says the bulletin. This is assuming that a permanent pasture is of good, clean turf, with few or no waste places, or that a temporary pasture has a good stand of grass or legumes throughout. Land that will provide such pastures frequently is high priced. The following table shows the cost of pasturing a cow on land ranging from $25 to $200 an acre:

Interest on cost of pasture per cow for the season; interest at 6 per cent on the value of the land, allowing from 1 to 4 acres per cow.

Value of land per acre.

Acres per cow.	$25	$50	$100	$150	$200
1	$1.50	$3.00	$6	$9.00	$12
1 1/2	2.25	4.50	9	13.50	18
2	3.00	6.00	12	18.00	24
2 1/2	3.75	7.50	15	22.50	30
3	4.50	9.00	18	27.00	36

4	6.00	12.00	24	36.00	48

Cost of pasture per cow per day on basis of preceding table with a pasture season of 150 days.

3	3	6	12	18	24
3 1/2	3 1/2	7	14	21	28
4	4	8	16	24	32

Where the value of land is so high that the cost of pasturing is excessive, or where the land may be more profitably used for growing crops other methods of summer feeding are more profitable. It is stated that in some sections for average production a cow can be fed on dry feed for 20 cents a day and when the cost of pasturing exceeds that amount some other method of feeding should be considered.

Grain should be fed to heavy-producing cows under all pasture conditions, says the bulletin. The following table is furnished as a guide to feeding grain with an abundant pasture. Variations should be made to suit different conditions and individual cows.

Grain fed cows on pasture need not contain the same percentage of protein as for winter feeding. Pasture being an approximately balanced ration, the grain ration should have about the same proportion of protein to other nutrients. The following mixtures are suggested for supplementing pasture without other roughage.

This Overland is the world's most powerful low-priced car. It has a 31 1/2 horsepower en bloc motor that is a perfect marvel for speed, power and endurance. By increasing the bore of the motor from 3 1/2" to 3 3/8" we are able to offer a power plant which at 1950 R.P.M. develops full 31 1/2 horsepower.

We have scores of telegrams showing that twenty to twenty-five miles per gallon of gasoline is not unusual.

The performance of this car is almost beyond belief.

demonstrate that it easily develops better than fifty miles per hour on the road.

Speed of course varies under different conditions, but in practically every instance it has been getting fifty miles an hour and with ease.

We have scores of telegrams showing that twenty to twenty-five miles per gallon of gasoline is not unusual.

The performance of this car is almost beyond belief.

That's a strong statement, but a fact nevertheless.

Try it yourself and see.

Here are more important facts.

Take any other low-priced car on the market. Pit it against this new Overland. Compare them for sheer speed, for abundance of power, for riding comfort and economy, and you'll find this car will back anything else clean off the boards.

It has the latest and most improved system of ignition.

It has the cantilever springs—the easiest riding springs in the world.

What's more, it's complete. Not a thing to buy. You get the finest Auto-Lite electric starting and lighting system, magnetic speedometer, one-man top, demountable rims and practically every accessory found on the highest priced cars.

It only goes to prove how big production can cut cost and save you money.

GRAIN STANDARDS ACT GIVES AGRICULTURE SEC'Y NEW POWERS

Provides for Establishment of Official Standards and for the Licensing of Grain Inspectors.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 19.—The United States Grain Standards Act, which gives the Secretary of Agriculture authority to establish, as soon as may be, official grain standards applicable to grain shipped in interstate commerce, became a law on August 11, 1916.

The Act authorizes the Secretary of Agriculture to investigate the handling and grading of grain and to establish, as soon as may be, standards for corn, wheat, rye, oats, barley, flaxseed and other grains. Not less than 90 days public notice must be given in advance of the date on which any such standard becomes effective.

Whenever such standards are established for any grain, the Act forbids the shipment or delivery for shipment, in interstate or foreign commerce originating in the United States, of any such grain which is sold, offered for sale, or consigned for sale by grade, unless it is inspected and graded by a licensed inspector, either at the place of shipment, at a point in transit, or at the destination. In case no licensed inspector is located either at the point of shipment or at the point of destination, the grain may be shipped without inspection, in which event either party to the transaction may refer any dispute as to the grade to the Secretary of Agriculture.

When grain shipped or delivered for shipment in interstate or foreign commerce is required to be inspected and graded by a licensed inspector, it is made unlawful for any person to represent that it is of a grade other than stated in a certificate issued in compliance with the act.

Shipment by Sample Permitted.

The act permits the shipment in interstate or foreign commerce of grain sold by sample or by type, or under any description which is not false and misleading and does not include any of the terms of the official grain standards.

The Secretary of Agriculture is authorized to examine grain that has been certified to conform to any grade of the official grain standards, or that has been shipped in interstate or foreign commerce. If, after an opportunity for hearing has been given to the interstate parties, it is determined that any such grain has been incorrectly certified or has been given to the interstate parties, designation which is false or misleading, he may punish his findings.

Right of Appeal.

When grain shipped in interstate or foreign commerce has been inspected as required by the Act, any interested party may either with or without reinspection, appeal the question of its grade to the Secretary of Agriculture. The Secretary of Agriculture is authorized to determine the true grade of the grain, and his findings are made prima facie evidence of that fact in suits between the parties in Federal courts. Reasonable fees may be charged for hearing disputes and appeals. When appeals are sustained, such fees are to be returned. Every person employed to inspect and grade grain for shipment in interstate or foreign commerce is prohibited from certifying the grain according to the official grain standards, unless he holds an unsuspended and unrevoked license issued by the Secretary of Agriculture.

Licensing Inspectors.

Any persons who presents satisfactory evidence of competency may be licensed as an inspector under the Act. In states which have or may hereafter have State grain inspection departments, the Secretary of Agriculture is required to issue licenses to persons authorized and employed to inspect and grade grain under the laws of such States. Licensed inspectors and persons employed by the Secretary of Agriculture for carrying out the provisions of the Act are prohibited from having any interest in any grain elevator or warehouse, or in the merchandising of grain, or from being employed by any person owning or operating any grain elevator or warehouse. Licensed inspectors are required to keep records of all grain inspected by them and to make detailed reports to the Secretary of Agriculture. The license of any inspector found to be incompetent, or to have issued any false certificate of grade, or otherwise to have violated any provision of the Act, may be suspended or revoked by the Secretary of Agriculture.

Penalties.

Any licensed inspector who knowingly inspects or grades improperly grain shipped in interstate or foreign commerce, or knowingly gives any false certificate of grade, or accepts a bribe for neglect or improper performance of duty, may also be punished by fine or imprisonment or both.

Similar punishment may be imposed upon other persons who violate certain portions of the Act, particularly those with reference to the inspection by licensed inspectors of grain shipped in interstate or foreign commerce.

An appropriation of $250,000 is made for the enforcement of the Act.

The necessary rules and regulations will be prepared and published at the earliest possible date, in order that persons interested may have an opportunity to become familiar with them before any of the standards become effective.

Objects Sought in the Act.
The benefits which the Act seeks to confer are described in the language used in the annual report of 1914 of the Secretary of Agriculture with particular reference to the estabishment of standards for corn—Grades for that grain—, if generally adopted and uniformly applied throughout the country will simplify the relations between producers, dealers, dealers and consumers. Under these grades, fairly used, the grower or shipper of a superior quality of grain will be in a position to demand from the buyer the fair value to which the quality of his product entitles him. On the other hand, the producer of a product of inferior quality will receive a lower return.

The beneficial influences upon agriculture of a uniform system of grading staple crop products will be very great thru the financial incentive afforded the farmer to improve the quality of his product by the careful selection of varieties, skillful culture, and adequate and effective method of harvesting, handling and protecting it while in his hands.

CATHOLICS ARRIVE

IN NEW YORK

New York, Aug. 18—Today witnessed the arrival of the advance guard of the 20,000 delegates and visitors who are expected here from all over the country for the annual convention of the American Federation of Catholic Societies and the meetings of its numerous affiliated organizations. "Catholic Week", as the period of the convention has been designated, will begin Sunday and continue until Thursday of next week. Several preliminary meetings are to be held, however, before the opening of the convention proper. The Catholic Press Association began its annual session today, as did also the committee on social propaganda of the German Catholic Central Verein.

Loss of teeth is caused usually by one of two conditions—Pyorrhea or decay, both of which develop, as a rule, only in the mouth where germ-laden tartar is present.

SENRECO, the recently discovered formula of a dental specialist, is two-fold in its action. First, it REALLY CLEANS, embodying specially prepared, soluble granules unusually effective in cleaning away food deposits. Second, it is particularly destructive to the germ of Pyorrhea. Yet it is perfectly safe, containing neither injurious chemicals nor hard grit.

ILLINOIS METHODIST CONFERENCE IS NOT FAR DISTANT

Ninety Third Annual Session Will Convene at Springfield September Sixth—Year Has Been One of Prosperity and Growth.

(By C. R. Morrison)

The conference year now closing, brings to a close the Five-year campaign known as the Education Forward Movement, in behalf of the six educational institutions, in central Illinois.

The original goal of $1,250,000, as a minimum need of these six schools and colleges, has been reached, with a possible quarter of a million of dollars more. The further needs of these schools, together with the impetus given, as well as the needs of the smaller schools, will push the campaign for some time yet, but perhaps under different conference arrangement.

Church Building

It has been a year of improvement of church property, and church building. A church costing $20,000 has been built at each of the following places, or are nearing completion:

St. Joseph, Leo Howard, pastor.

Arthur, J. C. Enninger, pastor.

Owaneo, D. W. Drake, pastor.

Mt. Sterling, M. R. Powers, pastor.

Bement, Wilbert Dowson, pastor.

Other churches, costing approxi-ately $15,000 each have been built or are in process of building at:

Concord, W. P. Bowman, pastor.

Casey, N. W. McPherson, pastor.

Carmargo, G. P. Park, pastor.

Waynesville, S. A. McIntosh, pastor.

At Kincaid, M. G. Coleman, acting pastor, in connection with his Taylerville pastorate, a $10,000 church has been built and dedicated.

Sinclair (Hebron) a $6,000 church is being built, C. H. Davis, pastor.

Mansfield has subscriptions of sufficient funds to begin a $20,000 church, J. S. Settles, pastor.

A $5,000 parsonage is nearing completion at Mahomet, in Champaign county, to take the place of one destroyed by fire last spring.

Revivals

Scarcely a church in the conference, but has had special revival services, during the year, and more than the usual number observed Passion Week in an evangelistic way, eliminating in a Self Denial service, for Foreign missions.

First Church, Decatur, E. M. Antrim, pastor, and The Mattoon Methodist Church, G. F. Oliver, pastor,

each had great revivals. Evangelist

Hanly in charge at Decatur, and the Bronley party, at Mattoon. Institute work in behalf of Sunday school efficiency, was undertaken in every District, with marked results. After each such session of three days of expert instruction and conference, the delegates arranged "Echo Meetings" in every church in the district, emphasizing the new and necessary things in the work of the school.

The Call of Death

Death has made sad inroad upon the ranks of the ministerial force, this year. Among the older members, the following are noted:

C. W. C. Munsell, aged 92, Eldorado, Kansas.

T. O. Batey, aged 74, in Montana.

W. W. Everhart, aged 74, Urbana.

Robert Stephens, aged 66, Danville.

B. D. Wiley, aged 63, Ogden.

Preston Wood, aged 49, Springfield.

M. S. McCoy, aged 60, Mt. Sterling.

Besides this, a number of preacher's wives or widows of deceased preachers have been called to their reward, namely:

Mrs. G. R. McElfresh, Mrs. L.

F. Walden, and her daughter, Mrs.

E. S. Borton, Mrs. J. P. Dimmitt, and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Jonas H. Dimmitt, Mrs. Hiram Buck, Mrs. A. C.

Armentrout, Mrs. M. S. McCoy, Mrs.

James Miller, Mrs. O. B. Hess, and

Mrs. E. S. Vorbeck. The very reci-pital of these names, bring up historic memories, in connection with the progress of Illinois Methodism, running back more than a half century.

Dr. W. H. Wilder, has been selected to deliver the memorial address, when these names are read at the opening session of the conference.

ment, having reached its assigned five-year limit, will, in a measure, give place to the Church-wide Program of Pensions for the Superannuate Ministry. Dr. H. C. Gibbs, of Decatur, has inaugurated a campaign which will be put into effect, at the coming session of Conference, calculated to reach every local church in the conference, and secure its hearty cooperation. Looking up the records, Dr. Gibbs has found that during the past 32 years, there has been a deficiency in ministerial support, (estimated by the laymen, themselves) of over $30,000,000. He is asking the sons and daughters, or grand sons and grand daughters, of these delinquent Methodists, and those who have been enriched by the sacrifices of their pioneer Itinerant preacher to make good this loss. The plan is by an "Every Family" canvass to secure in each charge a sum equal to the present salary of the preacher in charge, to be paid in five annual installments. Where this is not reached, large gifts are expected to make good the deficiency. Already a debt to a $30,000 farm, near Decatur, has been received and recorded, on the annuity plan, from an aged man and his wife, which in a few years will yield a goodly sum to the needy claimants on the conference.

PRE-HISTORIC IMPLEMENTS

R. F. Huddleston and friends were recently in the vicinity of Kampsville, Calhoun county, where they opened on the bank of the river, an Indian mound some five feet high and twelve feet in diameter. From it they took a lot of stone arrowheads and several articles of copper. One was evidently a cutting instrument as the Indians seemed to have the art of tempering that metal. The piece was about three inches long, two inches wide at the end and wider at the other end which was sharp. He had also found two conical pieces of copper about three inches long, rounded at the large and pointed at the other.

Many similar relics have been found in ancient mounds in that locality and farther down the river and at places many skeletons have been exhumed.

Dr. Joseph A. Capps was in the city yesterday from Chicago for professional consultation and for a visit with relatives in Jacksonville.

Misses Flora and Lizzie Scott have been a visit of two weeks with their sister, Mrs. R. R. Stevenson, 1223 Prospect street, and returned to their home in Monticello, Ill.

The election of Dr. J. W. VanCleave to the office of Treasurer of the Board of Conference Claimants, with an office in Chicago, will leave the Decatur District Superintendent to be filled. Rev. W. D. Fairchild was appointed to the Danville District leaving Clinton to be cared for by supplies until Conference.

There is a rumor that a prominent pastor is to transfer to Colorado, exchanging with Rev. W. N. Tobie. Bro. Tobie's health is such that he will not be able to do pastoral work, but he desires to be again in membership with his former comrades in the ministry and in the Conference where his excellent work has been done. It is probable that he will then superannuate and remain in Colorado at present. This will open up a strong church for some candidate. Rev. Parker Shields and Rev. E. B. Houck will ask for pulpits and pastoral work this fall and according to agreement will return to equal grade, if not better than left by them, three years ago. At least twelve of the prominent pastors in the Conference are rumored to be on the lookout for new pastorates. This shaking up of the conference in the upper classes will effect the conference in many other grades.

There is a bit of speculation as to the reason for the coming of a new Bishop to preside, even in the residential district of Bishop Nicholson. Some conjecture that the plan advocated by Bishop McDowell of a reduction in the number of districts, but which failed because of outside pressure, may yet be consummated. The presence of both the residential and residential bishops at the same time during the session, may mean some radical changes.

ZION CHURCH HAD FINE PICNIC PROGRAM

More Than Six Hundred Present to Enjoy Hospitality Extended—Various Contests Included in Day's Events.

The twenty-seventh annual picnic given by the people of Zion church in the Murrayville neighborhood, took place Saturday afternoon and evening. It was a hot day, but that fact did not prevent a large attendance and there were more than six hundred people present to enjoy the hospitality of the church extended in such a generous way thru the ladies aid society.

One hundred and fifty gallons of burgoo soup, sixty five gallons of ice cream and sixty big layer cakes formed a part of the good things which the company enjoyed. Mrs. Charles Curtis is the president of the aid society and various committees had the arrangements so well in hand for the picnic that all the exercises were carried out on scheduled time.

In the afternoon the program opened with a piano duet by Misses Hilda Osborne and Bessie Rea. Then the invocation was given by Rev. Mark White, pastor of the church. Other numbers on the program were as follows.

Piano solo—Bessie Bracewell. Reading—Lizzie Herron. Duet—Louise and Floyd Lashmet. Solo—Miss Maude Rimbey. Violin and piano duet—March children.

Address—Carl E. Robinson. Then followed various contests resulting as follows:

Best Lady Whistler—Mrs. Lurten Tucker, second, Mrs. Jonas Wilson.

Largest family—Charles Curtis. Prettiest girl under fourteen—Geraldine Piper.

Prettiest girl baby under 18 months—Matilda Newby. Prettiest boy baby under 18 months—Forrest Mills.

Man with the largest feet—Varden Wagstaff. Prettiest girl from 14 to 20 years—Miss Bessie Rea.

Prize contest—Miss Dobson. Oldest couple—Mr. and Mrs. James E. Rea.

Best looking boy under 18—William Ober. Best all purpose team—Robert Walker.

Best single driver—Charles Hayes first; William Ober, second.

Fifty yard dash for boys under 14—Forrest Rule.

Tag of war—Greasy Prairie against the world won by Greasy Prairie.

In the evening another program was carried out as follows:

Solo—Louise Lashmet.

Song—Little Alice Rimbey.

Duet—Martha Rule and John Curtis.

Solo—Maude Rimbey.

Duet—Mrs. Jackson and Mrs. Smith.

Duet—Clariday sisters.

The following were the members of the special committees who were ably assisted by other members of the society.

Burgoo soup—Mrs. M. R. Rousey and Mrs. James Bracewell.

Ice cream—Mrs. Mary Curtis, Mrs. B. Sheppard and Mrs. W. A. Still.

Bazaar—Mrs. John Osborne and Mrs. S. A. Bracewell.

The burgoo soup was made by Joseph Barnhart and many were the declarations that it was a very fine article. In all respects the picnic measured up with the ones in former years and all who attended were enthusiastic about the arrangements the committees had made for their entertainment.

JACKSONVILLE PEOPLE HEARD BIG NEW YORK EXPLOSION

Well Known Chicago Banker Now Identified With Big Oil Company.

The following notice from the Chicago Post will be read with interest in Jacksonville by a number of people who are acquainted with J. Fletcher Farrell of the Ft. Dearborn bank in Chicago. Mr. Farrell is to go to New York to become treasurer of an oil company. He has been in Jacksonville several times as a guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Cratree.

J. Fletcher Farrell, vice president and director of the Fort Dearborn National Bank of Chicago, has accepted the treasurer of the Sinclair Oil and Refining Corporation of New York, Chicago and Tulsa, Okla., and on Sept. 1 will assume charge of the finances of this corporation, which was formed a few months ago by H. F. Sinclair, its president, and since which time has attracted widespread attention. Mr. Farrell's headquarters will be in New York, adding one more to the long list of Chicago bankers who, in the last few years, have gone to New York to take positions of great responsibility, either of a banking or corporation nature. Mr. Farrell will retain his interest both in Fort Dearborn National Bank and the Woodlawn Trust and Savings Bank, and will continue to be a director of those institutions.

The Sinclair Oil and Refining Corporation represents a merger of a number of the most successful producing, pipe line and refining companies in the mid-continent field, which is located in Kansas, Oklahoma and northern Texas, including the Cudahy Refining Company, the Milliken Refining Company and other properties. The corporation has assets aggregating $5,000,000.

WILL OF MISS HAYDEN

The will of Miss Mabel Hayden was filed for record Saturday in the office of County Clerk Boruff. Miss Hayden died in California, and the document was filed by J. P. Lippincott who drew it. He explained that early action was taken for emergency reasons. The will was drawn April 27, 1914, with R. C. Reynolds and J. P. Lippincott as the witnesses. All of the property is left in the hands of John W. Lazebny as trustee. From the property Mr. Lazebny is to pay the income to Mrs. Clara Smith during her life time and at her death the rents, etc., are to be paid over to the children of Mrs. Smith until the youngest one is of age. At that time the property is to be divided into equal shares among the children. If Mrs. Smith's children do not survive her death the property is to be sold and the proceeds divided into equal shares between the First Baptist and the Woman's Missionary Society of that church. Mr. Lazebny as trustee and executor has authority to sell the real estate or take any action of that character that he deems best for all concerned.

COLORED SINGERS COMING

Mr. Emory Baptist Brotherhood has succeeded in booking the well known Williams Colored singers and a program will be given Wednesday night at Jacksonville High School auditorium. This troupe of singers have toured Europe and have appeared in Canada, England, Scotland, Belgium and Germany, as well as in most states of the Union, many times under auspices of white societies and church organizations. The singers are on their way east after completing engagements in Colorado and were secured for this city at the suggestion of the Rev. E. L. Scruggs who head them on his recent trip west. The singers could not be secured easily at any other time and there was no desire to conflict with chautauqua or other attractions.
